Commission on Disability Concerns to Meet

April 23, 2003

The Michigan Commission on Disability Concerns (MCDC) will meet Friday, April 25 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn South Convention Center, 6820 South Cedar Street, in Lansing.

In addition to regular agenda items, the March meeting will include a presentation by Robin Jones from the Great Lakes Americans with Disabilities Act Center, a discussion of "visitability" featuring Kim Hetrick and Dale Swanson from the Dearborn Commission on Disability Concerns, and a presentation on learning disabilities.

The commission is comprised of 21 governor-appointed members who serve in an advisory capacity. MCDC serves as an advocate and information resource for Michigan's 1.7 million persons with disabilities. It is administratively attached to the Family Independence Agency with its staff located in Lansing.

The meeting site is accessible. People with disabilities requiring additional services or alternative formats in order to participate should contact Christy Hill at (517) 334-8000.
